LAWRENCE GAS BILL TABLED IN THE HOUSE.

BOSTON, May 9.—The Boston 12 o'clock bill was ordered to a third reading in the house yesterday afternoon after comparatively brief debate. The only amendment attached to the measure was referendum to the next city election. This was offered by Mr. Ward of Buckland and was adopted on a voice vote.

The attempt to strike out the limitation of special licenses under the bill, which provides that no more than one for every 20,000 of the population can be granted by the licensing authority, failed. The amendment to strike it out was offered by Mr. Shields of Boston and was rejected 40 to 145, on roll call.

The bill was then ordered to a third reading, 113 to 60.

Mr. Luze of Somerville moved that the rules be suspended in order that the bill might be given its further readings and sent to the senate without delay. But Mr. Brigham of Marlboro objected, stating that he could not favor such a motion when made by a man who had not voted for or against the bill before the house. This objection effectually blocked suspension of the rules, unanimous consent being necessary.

The bill, therefore, went over till today, when it will be passed to engrossment and sent to the senate, where the sentiment is strong in favor of the measure.

House Chairman Barnes of the public lighting committee yesterday afternoon reported in the house the sliding scale bill applying the English system of gas prices and dividends to the Boston consolidated gas company.

There were no recorded dissenters on the report.

The contest of the afternoon came on the report of the taxation committee, "no legislation necessary" on the annual report of the state treasurer, in which the latter had urged the exemption from local taxation of state bonds and evidence of indebtedness.

It will be recalled that the "no legislation necessary" report was the warm series of sessions on the part of the taxation committee, and the vote in favor of such report stood 8 to 7, with the four senate members of the committee in favor of the report, and therefore, against the proposition to exempt the bonds from taxation.

Yesterday afternoon Senator Reed offered a substitute bill for the report, a bill exempting state bonds to be issued in the future, and he said it was endorsed by the Massachusetts state board of trade. The bill was attacked by Chairman Seiberlich of the taxation committee and by Senator Macleod of Cambridge.

The Reed bill was rejected on a roll-call, 17 to 18, and the report of the committee was then accepted. Question being on substituting the exemption bill in place of the report of the committee the division was as follows:

The Lawrence gas bill was tabled. The committee on public lighting reported a general bill to allow gas companies to increase their capital stock to an amount not to exceed $400,000 beyond the limit allowed by section 32 of chapter 119 of the revised laws.

On motion of Senator Chapple the senate adhered to its position on the order authorizing the committee on insurance to sit as a recess committee and the chair appointed a committee of conference, consisting of Senators Chapple, Harding and Nevins.

A communication was received from the clerk of the house that the house had passed to concur in the senate amendment excluding street railways from the provisions of the "pony express" liquor bill. Senator Stevens' motion to recede was lost by a vote of 3 to 17, and Senator Chase's motion to insist was adopted.

The senate also insisted upon its amendment to the bill relative to the illegal employment of minors, and a committee of conference was appointed consisting of Senators Cox of Essex, Butttrick and Hyde.

The bill relative to temporary school accommodation in the city of Boston was recalled from the governor's, its enactment reconsidered and the bill rejected by a voice vote.

There were several warm skirmishes in the state senate yesterday afternoon.

At the opening of the session Senator Harding of the Cape moved reconsideration of the bill fixing the salaries

LOWELL, May 10.—Sixty-two members of the evening classes at the Lowell Textile School were graduated last night.

FOOTBALL IS TO BE PLAYED AT HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, May 10.—That the committee on the regulation of athletic sports be authorized to permit, during the season of 1906, but not later than Dec. 1, 1906, games of intercollegiate football under the new rules, upon such terms and conditions as said committee on the regulation of athletic sports shall consider advisable in order to test the propriety of continuing intercollegiate football, and that a copy of this vote be sent to the president and fellows.

The overseers of Harvard University, by a vote of 6 to 5, adopted yesterday the recommendation from the committee on physical training and athletic sports by which football at Harvard is assured for the season of 1906.

The game, however, cannot be played until the first of last season, but must be in conformity with the new rules adopted by the American football rules committee, upon which Harvard had representation last winter.

The action of the overseers is largely in the nature of a compromise, because, while high up in university councils, where the weight to be given with football altogether, and the other factors that have been by no means so aggressive or radical. President Eliot, in the meeting of the overseers, maintained his former position in favor of abolishing the game, and was one of the men voting against the recommendation. With President Eliot, the others were Charles F. Adams, David W. Cheever, William W. Goodwin, George A. Gordon, Robert Grant, Charles E. Norton, Moorfield Storey and Stephen M. Weld, all of whom voted against the passage of the recommendation.

The 15 overseers by whose action football is to be retained for another year at least in Harvard's category of athletic contests were: Charles Francis Adams, 2d, Francis R. Appleton, Robert Bacon, Charles S. Fairchild, E. R. Frothingham, Augustus Holmway, Samuel Hill, William Lawrence, William C. Loring, John Noble, Her-

KEEPING TAB ON THE WORLD

First and Greatest of the Trust Brood, the Standard Oil Company, Charged With Monopolistic Rebating by Garfield and Flayed In the President's Message. Senate Makes Pipe Lines Common Carriers—France Checks General Strike. New Russian Crisis Near. Ultimatum to Turkey.

EXECUTIVE

President Pillories Oil Trust.

Just as the rate bill metal was at white heat in the senate forge by reason of the agreement to vote on the amendments, President Roosevelt got in a mighty blow, using as a sledge the report of Commissioner of Corporations Garfield on the operations of the oil industry.

"The report," says the president, "shows that the Standard Oil Company has benefited enormously up almost to the present moment by secret rates," and that this benefit "amounts to at least three quarters of a million a year." He points out that the correction of many of the rates is "an acknowledgment that they were wrong and yet were persevered in until exposed." The refusal of certain railway systems to operate has kept the Standard "in absolute monopolistic control of the field," especially in New England.

Thus the profit is shown to be not merely in the rate saving, but in the higher prices obtained. Prosecutions are to follow and other corporations, notably the sugar trust, are in the same boat. The railroads cannot protect their own stockholders from these trusts.

Competition should be introduced by some such means as placing alcohol on the free list. Thus argues the president and insists that the commerce commission should have power to examine the railroads as thoroughly as bank examiners now examine the banks, and that its decisions should take effect at once, "subject only to such action by the court as is demanded by the constitution." While some injustice might result in this way, he thinks that injustice of a more injurious kind results from the absence of such power.

Finally, and significantly, the president says the time has come "when no oil or coal lands held by the government, either upon the public domain proper or in territory owned by the Indian tribes, should be alienated."

According to Garfield, the Standard controls 23,000,000 barrels of the annual output of 28,000,000 barrels of refined oil.

The Standard Oil officials promptly gave out a statement protesting against the president's attack and denying many of the statements made by Garfield. They say the company has not been and is not "knowingly engaged in practices which are unlawful."

Limit Off Treasury Gold.

It was announced by Secretary of the Treasury Shaw that he had removed the $25,000,000 limit to the funds he would advance to national banks, dollar for dollar, on gold imports. Hereafter national banks by announcing an intention to import gold and depositing collateral in the sub-treasury may withdraw a like amount from the national treasury. This action tends to establish the new rule as a settled policy.

Father Sherman's "March."

The report that the Rev. Thomas Sherman, son of the late W. T. Sherman, had started on a journey over the route of the famous "march to the sea" conducted by his father, and that he was accompanied by a troop of the twelfth cavalry, caused a great deal of unfavorable comment throughout the south. It was explained later, however, that the cavalymen were sent to study the battlefields between Chattanooga and Atlanta, and that the officers merely permitted Father Sherman to accompany them. In view of the misapprehension existing, the president ordered the troop to return to post at Fort Oglethorpe after it had gone as far as Resaca.

Father Sherman abandoned his trip at Cartersville, Ga., apparently angered by the action of the president, and returned to Chattanooga. He is reported as saying that he was an invited guest of the federal government.

Budget For the Canal.

The isthmian canal commission met at Washington and recommended an appropriation of $28,348,281 with which to continue canal construction during the year ending June 30, 1907. This is based on plans for a lock canal.

McWade Accuses Peirce.

Former Consul General McWade at Canton, China, who was removed on the recommendation of Assistant Secretary of State Peirce, has now appeared before the house committee on foreign affairs and made serious counter charges against Peirce while defending his own course and character with numerous affidavits from people of prominence in Canton. McWade charged that Peirce was in Canton only a few hours and that while there he virtually compelled him to give up a valuable tiger rug. Since the hearing this rug has been returned to its former owner by Peirce.

POLITICAL

City Ownership For Omaha.

James C. Dahlman was elected mayor of Omaha as a Democrat on a municipal ownership platform, and all the Democratic candidates except one were elected. Dahlman's majority was 2,790, and it was the first time in sixteen years that the Democrats have carried the city.

Woman Suffrage Bill Passed.

The bill giving to women taxpayers in cities of the third class the right to vote on all tax propositions passed the New York senate by a vote of 26 to 23, the Democrats voting solidly against it.

Bryan's Philippine Solution.
In a syndicated letter dealing with his recent personal investigation of conditions in the Philippines, W. J. Bryan now declares that we should treat the Filipinos as we treated the Cubans—namely, by establishing Philippine independence. This, he says, would be to our material as well as to our moral advantage.

Dunne's Temporary Expedient.

Owing to the popular outcry for better street car service in Chicago, Mayor Dunne has adopted a new plan for settling the traction question pending the development of his ownership programme. He proposes to have the companies first agree to sell their property to the city at some future time for a price to be fixed then. They are to reconstruct the system with new routes and universal transfers and pay to the city profits over their returns. If the companies decline, a new company shall be licensed to construct and operate.

Weaver For City Ownership.

That the people of Philadelphia feel that it is time to own, control and operate the great public utility plants is the important declaration made by Mayor Weaver at the annual dinner of the Civil Service Reform association of Pennsylvania. He thought the time propitious for announcing his position, because men of merit and proved ability are now in control of the local government, so that the people need not fear to vote a loan big enough to build or purchase these utilities.

Clark to Quit Senate.

In a signed statement for his official organ, the Butte Miner, United States Senator W. A. Clark of Montana announced that he was not a candidate for re-election.

Governor Hoch Renominated.

Governor Hoch of Kansas has been renominated by the Republicans without a dissenting voice, notwithstanding the reported kissing episode. The admission had been made by the wife of ex-Governor Stanley that Hoch had tried to embrace her and this had created a good deal of talk. Governor Hoch did not deny the story. The platform approves of President Roosevelt's rate regulation message.

Mortgage Tax Law Repealed.

Both branches of the New York legislature passed the Page bill repealing the mortgage tax law. It was expected that the governor would sign as the bill had been amended to meet his objections.

Hearst Nominators Arrested.

Ten men were arrested as a result of the New York grand jury's investigation of the petition that nominated W. R. Hearst for mayor. They are charged with getting up forged signatures. The district attorney is still looking for the "man higher up."

Right to Ignorance Vindicated.

The recent decision of Judge Rice of the superior court of Pennsylvania, sustaining the lower court in declaring unconstitutional the vital section of the law of 1905, prohibiting the employment of boys under sixteen in the mines and under fourteen above the ground, is responsible for bringing thousands of small boys back into the mines and breakers. Although the prohibition against employment of these boys stands, its effectiveness is totally removed by striking out the provision requiring presentation of employment certificates, including the record showing the holder's attendance at school during the preceding year. Florence Kelly, secretary of the National Consumers' league, says in Charities and the Commons that the certificates thus abolished are the simplest device yet invented for making the age limit workable, and she declares that these Pennsylvania judges "will go down to history as the enemies of the children, like the twenty-one Georgia senators who last June condemned to death toll in cotton mills by day and by night the little children under ten years of age whose labor they refused to prohibit by statute."

LEGAL-CRIMINAL

Cherokess to Get $4,000,000.

The supreme court has affirmed the decision of the court of claims placing on the government the responsibility for the cost of removing the Cherokee Indians from the eastern states to Indian Territory sixty-eight years ago.

At the time the expenses were charged, to the treaty fund. The claims amount to $4,000,000.

Sugar Trust Rebaters Indicted.

The federal grand jury at New York has returned seven indictments against the American Sugar Refining company, the New York Central Railroad company and several individual officials of these companies for giving or receiving rebates.

Wilmington Lottery Seizure.

The printing plant of the old Louisiana Lottery company, which was barred from postal privileges many years ago, but which has been operating as the Honduras National Lottery company, with its monthly drawings held in Honduras, has been seized at Wilmington, Del., and at New York by order of the secret service. At the same time John M. Rogers, a prominent citizen of Wilmington who ran for mayor last year, was arrested for printing lottery tickets to the number of 600,000 each month. He is charged with violation of law in shipping these tickets to another state.

Resists Eighty Cent Gas Law.

The Consolidated Gas company of New York has gone into the circuit court to restrain the state of New York from executing the law fixing the price of gas at 80 cents. The company offers, if an injunction is granted at once, to turn over to the court all monies collected above the 80 cents while the suit is being adjudicated, these monies to be disposed of according to the result. The general allegation in the bill is that the law deprives the company of a reasonable profit.

End of the Rate Debate.

An agreement was reached by the senate to take up the various amendments to the Hepburn rate bill, beginning May 4, and to vote on each amendment as soon as discussion under the fifteen minute rule should end. There were about ninety amendments before the senate. As soon as the agreement was concluded Senator Fry of Maine gave vent to his satisfaction with the fervent exclamation, "Thank the Lord." The Lodge amendment declaring pipe lines to be common carriers was the first taken up, and it was adopted unanimously. When the vote was announced the senators joined in a laugh, it being apparent that none was so bold as to interpose as a friend of the great oil monopoly.

Congress Thanks General Porter.

A joint resolution was adopted in the house extending the thanks of the people of the United States to General Horace Porter for his patriotic services in recovering the body of John Paul Jones.

Free Seed Clause Retained.

The provision for a free distribution of garden flower seeds was retained in the agricultural appropriation bill, after a spirited discussion, by a vote of 153 to 282.

Loita Armour Not Cured.

The return of the little daughter of J. Ogden Armour, Lolita, for the second time to the Vienna hospital of Professor Lorenz gives color to the report that the famous operation performed in this country in 1903, which made so much talk about bloodless surgery, has not turned out successfully.

Dr. Shaffer of the Cornell Medical school, who was with Lorenz in this country, now admits as much. Nevertheless he said this is no criterion of the Lorenz method, for to his personal knowledge three operations performed that year have given the patients complete relief. Statistics indicate that the cures have been about 20 per cent.

Jordan's Theory of Earthquake.

President Jordan of Stanford university ascribes the recent California earthquake to a slipping of the Sierra Morena mountain chain from three to six feet along the line of a geologic fault. This chain forms the backbone of the peninsula of San Francisco, and along its base for forty miles is a narrow valley. Jordan says that on April 18 the old fault reopened and cracked the surface of the earth the entire length of the valley, causing the mountain to slip toward the north.

Yeast Bacillus For Cancer.

Dr. Doyen of Paris, addressing the medical congress at Lisbon last week, said that he had cured cancer by inoculating the patient with yeast bacillus. To Travel 400 Miles an Hour.

Mayor Tom Johnson of Cleveland is reported to have perfected the invention of a new system of transit, which will revolutionize travel in large cities and across the country. A working model has been tested, indicating the possibility of operating a car at the speed of 400 miles an hour! The car will run on overhead track and shoes will be used instead of wheels, magnets aiding to overcome the friction.

Mechanical Caricatures.

Within the past two or three months there have appeared in certain daily papers a new sort of portraiture of public men under the name of "jag camera" photographs. I. Elsworth Hare of Chicago is mentioned by Popular Mechanics as the inventor of this process, which consists in the application of heat and certain chemicals to the pictures on the photographic film.

METHUEN.

REWARD OFFERED.

At the time of writing no information had been received in regard to the whereabouts of Miss Susan Morse who disappeared from the sanitarium in Marblehead. A circular has been issued with her photograph and description, offering a reward of $200 to any person finding Miss Morse, or giving definite information which will lead to the discovery of her whereabouts. About a thousand of these circulars have been sent to the various public places, police stations, postoffices, throughout the lower end of the county and about Boston. The circular gives the following description:

"Brunette, black hair, dark eyes (extra large pupils), 33 years old, 5 feet 4 in. tall, weight about 120 pounds, dressed in navy blue serge skirt, white shirtwaist, black hat, dark grey mixture loose fitting coat; well educated, good talker, nothing unusual about appearance. Is supposed to have left Marblehead, Wednesday morning, May 2, 1906.

Only clue is a letter mailed at Roxbury Station at 11.30 same morning. It is possible she may have given the letter to some one to mail for her or lost it on street or cars and finder mailed it. Letter was addressed to Mr. Charles E. Collins, Methuen, Mass."

DEATH OF J. W. ROBIE.

John W. Robie died this morning at his home, Smith's lane, off Lowell street, at the age of 60 years, six months and 10 days.

The deceased was a native of Manchester, N. H., but had for many years lived in Methuen. Besides a widow, Anne (White) Robie, he leaves two brothers, James of Methuen and Frank of Manchester.

The funeral will be held Friday morning at 10 o'clock and the body will be taken to Holbrook, Mass., for interment. (Manchester papers please copy.)

METHUEN LOST.

The Manchester Union gives the following account of the Pinkerton-Methuen game at West Derry yesterday:

The Pinkerton academy ball team crossed bats this afternoon on the Birch street grounds with the Methuen Mass. high school team. The game was well played by both teams but the Pinkerton boys outclassed their opponents at many points. Pinkerton won by a score of 10 to 2, the Methuen scoring only in the first and last inning.

HOPE OF THE BALD.

"I can always tell a man this time a year who is losing his hair," said a northeast car conductor yesterday. "They always ride with their hats off when the sun beat down on them and the wind blows their scanty locks about. Every man that is getting baldheaded imagines if he could go bareheaded long enough in the open air the head of hair of his youth would come back."

The Punchard Trees Again.

The editor is in receipt of a communication about the Punchard trees that is a timely and interesting contribution to this discussion. The writer is one of the lovers of the Punchard trees and is evidently very anxious that enough of the evergreen shall be left to still shelter the sentiment that has so long been associated with them, but is still sufficiently sensible of the ill effects of the entire mass to be willing to have a vigorous pruning take place. The letter opens with a few personal words and then says:

"I want to approve in part, and criticize somewhat, your attitude upon the Punchard trees. You are not yielding at all to the sentiment that surrounds those green boughs and you are forgetting the associations that many old Punchardites can recall of which they are a part. To cut them all would be a serious shock to many of us and I for one hope that it will not be done. But I am really afraid that many of them ought to be cut and the sooner it is done the sooner we can begin other improvements. Perhaps you are right about the walk and it certainly looks reasonable, but whatever is done I do hope that enough of the grove will be left to retain some of the old associations for old pupils who may return from time to time to see their school."

Our correspondent has a sensible idea of the situation, although it is over-tempered somewhat by sentiment. Perhaps it may be wise to leave some of the old growth, the writer is inclined to think it will be for a while, and the plan arranged by the landscape artist yields to the sentiment of our correspondent and does leave several groups of the trees. But the writer is willing to go on record as believing that in the end the satisfactory treatment of this problem will find but few of the present trees standing.

There is one point in the above letter however, which seems to be an agreed fact and that is the need of a generous cutting, and the surety that the sooner begun the sooner done. The time has now passed when anything can be accomplished this year in the way of planting, but the summer months should certainly see a start made that would make possible the shaping up of the grade for fall planting. It would be almost a crime to let another Spring find the same "slough of despond," leading up to the Punchard building, that has so long been the muddy way to higher education in Andover.

Editorial Cinders.

It does not seem possible that a whole decade has passed since the Free church celebrated its semi-centennial. Yet it has and now a sixtieth anniversary milestone is planted on the roadway along which this splendid organization is passing. The spirit of the latest celebration was not a bit less enthusiastic in its planning for future work, and the endorsements took the most substantial form in their recording. The new church building on Elm street is still some ways off but it gets up a little higher on the horizon of hope every year, and there is little doubt that the celebration of the next decade will be held within new walls. Congratulations to the "little church under the hill."

That is a pretty serious state of affairs which the warm weather reveals in a Summer street neighborhood. It looks almost like criminal negligence for some one, and the tree warden should make a sharp investigation of the affair. And after the investigation he should go farther and so plan future work that such an occurrence could not possibly happen again. The communication published elsewhere is not a bit more indignant than is justified by the condition of affairs.

KILLED BY ENGINE

Colored Girl Struck by President Tuttle's Special and Dies in a Few Hours.

A special train on the Boston & Maine road caused the death of Miss Lillian Lawrence, a colored girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lawrence, at the depot on Monday noon. The accident occurred at about two minutes past twelve as the employees of Smith & Dove's mill were on their way home for dinner. The dead girl was an employee of the mill and with other friends was returning to her home, going across the tracks almost in the middle of the depot.

There was a shifting engine on the south bound rail which Miss Lawrence and a companion allowed to pass. They then started to cross the north bound track without the least thought of danger. The attention of Miss Lawrence was attracted by a member of the crew on the shifter and as she turned the special came noiselessly but at an estimated speed of about 40 miles an hour from Boston, bearing President Lucius Tuttle and the directors of the Boston & Maine road.

Several of her friends from the mill and others who were nearby shouted to her to jump back but she evidently did not understand their meaning for before she really knew there was any danger she was struck by the steam chest of the engine and carried along toward Lawrence. That the girl was not killed outright is surprising as her body was thrown over and over for about twenty yards and she was finally thrown face down on the Essex street crossing.

The train was immediately stopped and in a few minutes a large crowd gathered. Dr. Torrey was sent for and arrived in a few minutes. The injured girl was unconscious but there was a slight hope for her as she was breathing. She was removed to her home on Pearson street where it was found that her injuries were very severe and it was the opinion of the physician that she would not survive. Her skull was fractured and she received fractures of the arms and legs. Everything possible was done but she passed away about three o'clock in the afternoon.

Miss Lawrence was 17 years of age and had been an employee at Smith & Dove's mill for about two years. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, prayers being said at the house by Rev. F. R. Shipman, and afterward the body was taken to the church where a simple but impressive service was held. There was an abundance of flowers from friends and relatives and one large piece was sent by the companions of the deceased in Smith and Dove's mill.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Foster rendered special music, one of the hymns being the favorite of the deceased. The bearers were Mr. Silvey of Billerica, Charles Jackson, Alexander Shepherd and Arthur Stewart. Interment was in Spring Grove cemetery.

Entertained at "The Croft"

The Aventure club held a very interesting meeting Thursday evening, with Mrs. John Joyce, at her spacious home, "The Croft," in Frye Village. There was a full attendance. In connection with the course of study of the writings of James Fenimore Cooper, a paper was read by Mrs. R. F. Sheehan upon the subject, "The Work of Mother Katherine Drexel." Mother Katherine Drexel is a woman who is many times a millionaire but who has devoted her life, talent and wealth to the work among the Indians. The subject was admirably handled and the paper was very interesting.

At the conclusion of the paper a discussion took place upon the treatment of Indians by our government. Every member entered into the talk and the meeting was intensely instructive. Owing to the lengthy discussion of the Indian problem there was no time for the current events.

Luncheon was served by the hostess and a pleasant social hour followed.

Surprise Party on Salem Street.

The Ladies' Whist club of Salem street tendered a surprise party to Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Brown at their home last Friday night which was a most enjoyable event in the club's successful season. The party had been cleverly planned and the plans worked successfully, neither Mr. nor Mrs. Brown having the slightest inkling of what was being done in their honor.

The club was stationed in the front hall and when Mrs. Brown entered the house from the side door she was met by the ladies. A few moments later Mr. Brown arrived and he too was confronted by the members of the club. Both were agreeably surprised and when the excitement wore off, the front door opened and two gentlemen friends of the club entered bearing a large punch bowl, filled with lemonade and accompanied by a dozen glasses. These were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Brown. Everyone then settled down to enjoy the evening and the party broke up about 12 o'clock.

Concert by the Schuberts.

The Schuberts of Boston added to their laurels last Friday evening when they gave an excellent concert in the Town hall under the auspices of the local Y. M. C. A. It was their third appearance here and as at their former performances, they fairly delighted their large audience.

They were assisted by Miss Batting in recitations and monologue, and she was fully up to the high standard of readers who have accompanied the Schuberts in years past.

There were two changes in the program as originally arranged "Hark the Trumpet" by Dudley Buck and "Sunset" by Van de Water being substituted for "Beleagured" and "The Long Day Closes" both by Sullivan. The Schuberts were in excellent voice and their quartette work all through the program was of the very highest order. Encores were demanded repeatedly and the quartette were very generous in their responses. Dr. Clark and Mr. Swaine rendered their solos in a most finished manner. Comment on the former's singing is hardly necessary, for there are very few basses who can equal him in range and quality.

Miss Batting early captivated her listeners and she was recalled on each occasion.

The program was as follows:

North Essex Triangular League.

A special meeting of the league was held in Pynchard High school, Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting was called to order shortly after 3.30 by secretary H. Sellars, in the absence of the president and vice-president.

The advisability of holding the track meet on May 30th, instead of May 11th was considered.

Mr. Curtis thought that an amendment ought to be made to the effect that the motion would depend upon Methuen's vote. After some discussion it was decided that it was the best day that it could be held, so the motion was again brought before the meeting, and carried.

In regard to the date for the closing of entries, Mr. Curtis moved as follows: That the entries close May 21st and that each individual entered in any event must be made to compete in that event, unless he is excused by the judges of that event for a good and sufficient reason, and for each entry that a man refuses to compete in, his school shall pay a fine of 10 cents.

The motion was seconded and carried. After some discussion, the pole vault and two mile run were added to the list of events upon the desire of the two schools present.

It was then agreed to send a copy of the proceedings to Methuen.

The meeting then adjourned.

Will the party who borrowed the town's paving rammer please return same at once.

THE BOSTON STORE

An Indignant Neighborhood.

The residents and property owners on Summer street are usually a quiet and peaceable class of people, but recently an event has occurred in their midst which has stirred their indignation and wrath to the highest pitch of excitement, and which I am sorry to say, has found expression in some instances in the form of pretty hard words and phrases, not exactly in accordance with the strict rules of Christian piety against the guilty parties; but which I think that even St. Peter himself would pardon when he came to know all the circumstances.

The cause of this unwanted excitement and exasperation, is briefly this. A few days ago the premises of Mr. Lowe, our well-known druggist, who resides on this street, was found awarming with millions of the brown-tail pest, which the town and its citizens have, during the winter been trying so hard to exterminate. It was inconceivable, at first sight, how such immense numbers of this detestable nuisance, could have collected there, as Mr. Lowe had been to the expense of having his trees thoroughly examined and cleaned by men supposed to know their business, months before. But the mystery was soon solved when, following the mighty trail of brown-tail life through an opening back under the barn, it was discovered that one of those large burlap sacks which the exterminating party, had used as the depository for the eggs of this pest, had been placed there by some heedless workmen and probably forgotten. And this sack had the appearance of having been filled with stems and eggs, as they were clipped from the trees. And now under the warmth of Spring time, the barn outside and inside, was alive with them.

And to every farmer and lover of trees, it was certainly not only a melancholy but a wicked sight. Here was a sufficient number of these minute and destructive animals to flood the town, if not the whole country another year. And placed there through the sheer indifference and heedlessness of a gang of irresponsible workmen who seem to have no other interest or care in their business than to receive their daily pay. It may be difficult to determine, in this instance exactly where the blame rests; but the people living on Summer street believe that it is such a flagrant piece of criminal carelessness that calls for investigation by our town officials. Why should we be spending our time and money every year to exterminate the brown-tail and at the same time save eggs in bags enough for a larger crop another year? And has Mr. Lowe and his neighbors who have paid from money to have this nuisance kept from their premises, no redress when they find the mischief is increased rather than diminished by the kind of help employed by town officials? Is a matter of justice and law, a town or its agents. And it should as far as possible repair the damage done and punish the guilty parties. Will not the chairman of our Park Commissioners give due attention to this matter so vital to the whole interest of our town?

A LOVER OF TREES.

The other points went as follows: Centenary military school 11, St. Paul's school, Garden City, 11; East high of Rochester, N. Y., 8; New Haven high 2. Capt. Bartholomew of Andover won third in the 100 yard dash. Lynn of Andover took fourth in the half mile. Andrus of Andover won the shot put with a record of 44 ft. 8 1-2 in. and Greenough was second with 41 ft. 8 in. Andrus also won the hammer throw with 156 ft. 6 in. SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY

The Free Church Observes Birthday Party in a Fitting Manner—Large Contributions for New Edifice

Sixty years of life and success is what the Free church has just completed and these years have been fruitful in a generous measure. In honor of the three score years a birthday party was celebrated on Monday evening, the old church being filled to its capacity with members, former members, and friends and lovers of the house of worship.

The services began in the auditorium at half past seven after the gathering had been ushered to the pews by six young ladies: Misses Emily Stafford, Cecelia A. Kydd, Ruby Jackson, Bertha C. Coutts, Florence Richardson and Jean David. The pastor, Rev. F. A. Wilson, was chairman of the gathering.

The service opened with a hymn to the tune "Cambridge," after which Rev. F. R. Shipman, pastor of the oldest church in Andover, led in prayer. The congregation then joined in reading the scripture and this was led by Rev. William P. Fisher of Andover, nephew of the fourth pastor of the church.

The choir rendered "Jerusalem, My Glorious Home," and was assisted by a few former members of the choir, perhaps the most noted of whom was Mrs. Octavius Blunt (formerly Miss A. E. Dinsmore) of Lowell, who was the leading soprano in the organization of the choir, and sang at the first service at which music was a part. The choir was formed in Mrs. Blunt's house while she was a resident on Main street. While the choir rendered this and other anthems later in the evening the audience turned and faced it, it being explained by the pastor that an article in the By-Laws at the organization of the church read "the congregation will rise, turn about and face the choir during the singing."

Rev. Mr. Wilson then made a short address of welcome in which he hoped that all would feel that they had a special part in the party and that he would not serve as a minister, but as a brother: not as a preacher, leaving that part of his duties until Sunday. A poem was read by him which was written by the late James Smith, one of the original members of the church, entitled "On Being Organized as a Church" dated April, 1846. A letter of greeting was also read from Rev. Sherlock Bristol, the second pastor of the church, 1848-49, who is now living in California, at the age of 92 years.

Rev. William G. Poor of Topsfield, a former Free church boy, was first called on to give reminiscences of the pastors of the church. He spoke with respect of all the ministers of the church, and deeply six of the ten as known and named by him. Rev. Mr. Lane, Rev. Stephen C. Leonard, Rev. E. S. Williams, Rev. F. B. Makepeace and the present pastor. He said that through thick and thin, through pleasure, disappointment and trial, the old Free church had remained loyal and firm, partly because led by such men.

Mr. Poor spoke very feelingly of the pastorate of Rev. Mr. Leonard whom he remembered very well, who served the church during the Civil war.

Letters were read from the three other living pastors and all showed that there was still a warm spot in their hearts for the old Free church. These were from the old Rev. S. Williams of Saratoga, Cal., 1870-72, Prof. G. F. Wright of Oberlin college, 1872-81, F. B. Makepeace of New York, 1881-88. The choir then rendered another anthem.

The offering was then taken up and was one of the most interesting and distinctive features of the evening. Small silk bags had been distributed to every man, woman and child that attended the church and to many who worshipped at other churches, but who were interested in the welfare of the Free church. With these bags was sent an original poem calling attention to the anniversary and that the bags were to be used in sending in a contribution consisting of as many pennies as the recipient was years in age, this money to go to the church building fund.

That the poem had been well responded to was soon evident when the young ladies had taken up the collection, as the boxes were heaping full of bags. These were taken to the vestry and the money counted, and a few minutes later the pastor made the announcement that $407.36 had been received in cash and two pledges of $1000 each. This announcement was received with great applause. The money was turned over to treasurer Bell and has been deposited with the fund for the new church. Since Monday night a check for $200 has been received, making a total of $2007.36. During the collection Miss Alice Cox beautifully rendered a violin solo.

A paper was read on the formation of the Ladies' Benevolent society by Miss Agnes F. Smith which was very interesting to the ladies especially, and showed that much the same work was done in former days as is being done now.

Mr. Wilson read a very interesting paper on the formation of the choir, written by Mrs. Joseph W. Poor. This was one of the most pleasant reminiscences of the evening and contained many pleasant memories of the days when she and many of the other members, some now dead and all past middle life, sang in the choir. Many pleasant instances of gatherings, sleigh rides and parties were recalled, all of which to the older people seemed like yesterday.

George W. W. Dove spoke briefly of the former deacons and recalled vividly to mind most of them from the foundation of the church to the present time. John W. Bell closed the reminiscences by giving an account of the Sunday school from the time of Mr. Foster to the present day. Those who have been in charge since Mr. Foster have been: Mr. Norton, one year; F. H. Johnson, two years; Mr. Schaffner, two years; Deacon David Middleton, two years; Mr. Foster, one year; Solomon Palmer, two years; Rev. F. B. Makepeace, three years; John W. Bell, five years. The first superintendent was James Smith. The present superintendent, J. Newton Cole has fulfilled the office for the past 16 years.

After singing another old hymn the congregation was invited to the vestry for a social hour and to partake of refreshments. Nearly all went below and for short while the old days were talked over among groups of friends here and there. The members of the Ladies' Benevolent society served coffee and cake.

One of the interesting features of the evening was the collection of pictures of a number of original members and of all the pastors which were on exhibition in the vestry.

The entire program for the evening was as follows:

Prelude, "March for a Church Festival" Best Hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past, Our Hope for Years to Come." Tune, Cambridge Scripture reading Miss Alice L. Cox Prayer Rev. F. A. Wilson Anthem, "Jerusalem, My Glorious Home" L. Mason Address of Welcome Rev. F. A. Wilson Reading letters of greeting from former pastors Reminiscences of pastors Rev. William G. Poor Anthem, "How Holy is this place Lord I have loved the place of Thine abode, and the temple where Thy glory dwelleth" Offerory Violin solo, "Romance" Svendsen Miss Alice L. Cox Reminiscences of Ladies' Benevolent society Miss Agnes F. Smith Reminiscences of Choir Mrs. Joseph Poor, read by the pastor. Reminiscences of Deacons George W. W. Sight Seeing in Boston.

The scholars of the various ninth grades in town accompanied by superintendent C. F. Palmer, Miss Chase and Miss Putnam, made their annual trip to Boston last week on Friday.

They reached Boston at 8.54 and went first to the Copp's Hill cemetery. After an interesting half hour spent there, they went on by the Old North church and the Park Revere house to the market. A walk through the market was followed by a short rest in Faneuil Hall.

Next the old State House was visited and then the party proceeded to the State House where our laws are now made. There they were hospitably welcomed and entertained by Speaker Cole. A visit to the House in session, the use of a commodious lunch room where health was drunk in milk generously provided by Mr. Cole, a tour of the building under the escort of a courteous guide, and an informal reception given by Mr. Cole in his rooms, added greatly to the pleasure of the day.

The walk across the common and through the public gardens was much enjoyed.

The La Farge windows in Trinity church, and the treasures of the Art Museum and Public Library were seen by tired eyes. But the ride in an open car to Charlestown proved refreshing and the inspection of the Constitution and Texas was eager and thorough.

It was a merry party that wended their way to Bunker Hill where thirty-six climbed to the top of the monument. By that time the special car awaiting at the North station seemed a welcome resting place and to it the elevated train quickly took the sojourners. At 5.52 all were in Andover once more tired but happy.

Guild Defeats Defenders.

In an interesting game of ball played on the old P. A. campus Saturday, the Andover Guild club defeated the Young Defenders of Lawrence by the score of 11-8. Stewart's one-hand stop in the fourth inning was a hair raiser. Warden and Hart made good catches in the field. Ryley and Doucett pitched a good game for the Guild.

Raymond pitched a good game for the Defenders, but received poor support. Coughlin caught a good game. His throwing to second was perfect.

Notorious Swindler Captured.

After having eluded the police of the entire country for over three months, despite the fact that unusual efforts to apprehend him were made, Edward Haase, alias Haase, the alleged notorious "oculist swindler," who escaped from State Detective Hodges in the south terminal station, Boston, on Feb. 4 last, was captured in Fairhaven, N. J., Tuesday.

Haase was wanted by the police of Taunton, Hartford, Providence and Attleboro. He is the man who is supposed to have operated in Andover last fall.

FOREIGN

Goremykin Succeeds Witte.
The often reported resignation of Premier Witte of Russia was officially confirmed May 2, when it was announced that former Minister of the Interior Goremykin had been appointed in Witte's place. The impression prevailed that Witte had been peremptorily dismissed by the czar owing to the intrigue of the reactionaries. The new premier is known as one of the reactionaries. He has been the avowed enemy of Witte. He comes from a noble family with estates near St. Petersburg, and his dairies supply the capital with milk.

During the week the Social Democrats held a secret session at St. Petersburg, with the object of perfecting plans for a general uprising. Of the 316 members of the new duma so far elected, the Constitutional Democrats number 218 and there are only ninety-six more members to be elected.

Japan's War Heroes Parade.
The grand review of the victorious Japanese army was held at Tokyo in the presence of the emperor and Field Marshal Oyama, both of whom wore the khaki uniforms of the ordinary service. Trophies of the war were placed before the palace gates, including 511 guns, 70,000 rifles, 1,230 swords and 3,162 wagons. Fifty thousand wives and children of fallen soldiers added to the impressiveness of the scene.

Kossuthists Win the Election.
Incomplete returns of the elections in Hungary indicated that the followers of Kossuth had been returned by a large majority.

Rushing Troops to Egypt.
The British government has chartered the Leyland steamer Castran in order to hasten the conveyance of a large body of troops to Egypt, in view of the boundary dispute with Turkey. Foreign Secretary Grey said in the commons that the Turkish claims on the Sinai peninsula at the head of the Red sea extend far beyond the city of Tabah, which is claimed as British territory. A demand has been made for the withdrawal of Turkish troops pending a settlement. It was charged that the boundary pillars had been removed. The real cause of the conflict is that both Turkey and Great Britain were planning to run railroads to the head of the Gulf of Akaba, the eastern arm of the Red Sea. The British terminus was to be at Tabah.

Violent May Day in France.
Notwithstanding that the French government had mobilized 60,000 soldiers to assist the 12,000 police and 8,000 republican guards of Paris in maintaining order and had arrested many leaders of the labor unions, the anticipated May day demonstrations were so numerous and persistent as to keep the government's forces at high tension from early dawn to late at night. The nucleus of the threatening disturbance, which had its counterpart in many other cities of France, was the inauguration of a general strike by various labor unions having an aggregate membership of 90,000. It was generally believed that the anarchists and royalists of the French capital were preparing to take advantage of this labor movement to set in motion a revolution against the existing order. The purpose of the strike was to secure shorter hours and better wages. Nearly all of the trades were represented.

Because M. Clemenceau, the minister of the interior and the strong member of the cabinet, had been known as a Socialist the leaders of the movement evidently were not prepared for the drastic methods of repression. They say that he has been more severe than any of his predecessors. M. Griffuelhes, general secretary of the Confederation of Labor, was dragged from his bed and taken to prison on the charge of inciting to pillage and advocating the revolutionary propaganda. This act greatly inflamed the laboring classes, who regarded it as a violation of all the principles of individual liberty for which the French republic stands. Another significant arrest was that of Count Beauregard, the illegitimate son of Napoleon III., on the ground that he had some connection with a Royalist plot to put Prince Victor Napoleon on the throne. The fear of serious trouble caused a general exodus of the upper classes and a rush to buy up all the available provisions.

More than 100,000 demonstrators thronged the streets, but without any apparent plan or leadership. Minor riots occurred and cavalrymen used their sabers in answer to a shower of stones, a score of strikers being wounded. Fully 1,000 arrests were made during the day. The strikers declared that the movement had only begun, however, and that there would be no peace for the country until their demands were granted. Stores and banks were closed throughout the day and many of the theaters at night.

Miners Clash With Troops.
At Mount Carmel, Pa., a body of foreign born miners, incensed by the presence of a troop of twenty-two mounted police under Captain J. W. Page to preserve order, attacked the troop with a volley of stones. At first the soldiers repulsed the mob by using their clubs, but when they were attacked a second time the officers fired point blank and three men fell, while the rest of the crowd retreated. When the attack was repeated the officers fired again. The result was that seventeen men were shot and four fatally wounded, while the officers retreated to the barracks of the Sayre colliery.

Longshoremen on Strike.
About 30,000 members of the International Longshoremen's union at Chicago struck May 1, and freight traffic on the lakes was virtually at a standstill.

The Iron Trade Review, published at Cleveland, admits that lake traffic is paralyzed temporarily and says that the attempt to force ships' mates into the union will be resisted by the owners, who will soon begin the operation of docks with nonunion men. Most of the iron furnaces are prepared to continue in blast from six to eight weeks without more ore.

Pennypacker Warns Miners.
In a proclamation Governor Pennypacker of Pennsylvania promised to protect the lives and property of all miners who desire to work and called upon the people to assist in the maintenance of the law. He declared that no one had a right to interfere with another man who may want to labor. The anthracite miners' convention at Scranton met, with every expectation that a strike would be the outcome, barring intervention from Washington. Some of the independent operators came out squarely for the open shop.

INDUSTRIAL

Asphalt Highways for Jersey.
Commissioner of Roads Hutchinson of New Jersey is considering a proposition from an Atlantic City contractor to furnish the state with asphalt roads at the same price that is now paid for the macadam. The proposed asphalt is not the same as used on city streets, but is used in connection with broken stone as a binder instead of the dirt now used. The result will be a hard, but slightly rough surface, absolutely free from dust. The commissioner says that this road can be built for $8,000 a mile and that no repairs will be needed in ten years.

Against Northern Cotton Spinners.
The cotton planters of the south and the northern spinners held a conference at Washington, during which the southernners announced that the cotton gamblers and speculators and all middlemen must be excluded from the trade in future. It is the first time that spinners and growers have met face to face, and the latter declared that they would lock the crop up in a southern warehouse, with a southern key, financed by southern money, rather than put up any longer with the demands dictated by half a dozen cotton gamblers and speculators in New York.

The final report of the director of the census on cotton production for 1905 places the crop at 10,725,002 bales. This is slightly above the seven year average, but considerably smaller than that of the preceding year.

COMMERCIAL

To Finance San Francisco Loan.
A syndicate of New York capitalists was reported to have offered $100,000,000 toward the rebuilding of San Francisco. This was arranged through Senator Newlands of Nevada. In the meantime the financial stringency in the ruined city was temporarily relieved by the opening of the bank vaults and the resumption of banking on a limited scale. Pending the decision as to money for reconstruction, many of the business houses in the burned district have erected temporary board shanties in order to carry on necessary transactions. The local relief committee was greatly disappointed upon discovering that the $2,500,000 appropriated by congress was not to be made available in cash, but was to be used first in replenishing the army stores which had been depleted by emergency consignments of tents, bedding, rations, etc., which had been sent to the earthquake sufferers by order of Secretary Taft. The secretary in a telegram to Mr. Phelan explained that the appropriation was so worded as to provide for the purchase of an equal amount of army stores and for the transportation and maintenance of troops. The amount left available now would not exceed $700,000.

At San Jose the loss was $8,000,000, and 5,000 residents of that place are homeless. All the prominent buildings are down. At Santa Rosa, where sixty-three were killed, the people knew nothing of the disaster in San Francisco until the news was brought by a party of more than 1,000 refugees.

All Night Bank Starts Well.
Within the first twenty-four hours after the opening of the new Night and Day bank at Fifth avenue and Forty-fourth street, New York, about $1,000,000 had been deposited, and its success was assured.

B. and O. Sells Coal Interests.
It was announced at Baltimore that the Baltimore and Ohio railroad had sold a majority of its stock in the Consolidated Coal company, by means of which it had controlled five other important mining and selling companies. This was said to be a concession to public opinion. The output of the Consolidated Coal company is more than 10,000,000 tons a year.

New Rules For Equitable.
The directors of the Equitable Life have adopted bylaws in harmony with the provisions of the Armstrong law. There was opposition to the plan of concentrating greater power in the hands of President Morton. The president and vice president are to be elected annually, and the office of fourth vice president will be abolished. The actuary, comptroller, secretary and treasurer are to be appointed by the board of directors. All investments must be in the name of the society. Five directors may call a special meeting at any time. Any risk in excess of $200,000 shall be reinsured in another company. The accounts are to be verified by a public accountant.

Lawson of Boston Bellicose.
In a series of half page advertisements under startling headlines, Thomas W. Lawson resumed his campaign against the Rockefeller-Morgan clique of financiers known as the "system" by predicting a panic in steel trust stocks. Instantly the decline in prices was stayed. Incidentally he announced that he was about to expose the "crime of the steel trust," whereby $250,000,000 of real property was turned into a $1,500,000,000 "license to rob the American people annually of $140,000,000."

EDUCATIONAL

Educators Meet in South.
At the ninth southern educational conference at Lexington, Ky., Robert C. Ogden of New York and 100 prominent friends of the movement who had come on a special train as his guests were present. In his opening address Mr. Ogden said that the administration of the conference lacked cohesion and strength. He favored a more centralized executive committee. Governor Folk of Missouri spoke in favor of compulsory education for the south, saying that if a parent was poor enough to be dependent on the earnings of a child the parent should be supported by the state as a pauper. President Dabney of the University of Cincinnati said that Ogden was doing a greater work for the country's advancement than any other man he knew. The party left for Old Point Comfort, Va., to attend the commencement exercises of Hampton Institute.

SOCIOLOGICAL

High License Reduces Saloons.
Collector Traeger of Chicago estimates that the beginning of the first year under the $1,000 license has had the effect of reducing the number of saloons by 500.

A New Antispitting Policy.
Chief of Police Milliken of Cincinnati has directed all patrolmen to hand to any one seen expectorating in a public place a card on which is printed: "Spitting menaces public health. Spitting on sidewalks, in public conveyances or in public places is liable to communicate disease. Do not spit." The other side of the card bears a copy of the city ordinance.

Upton Sinclair Answers Armour.
In an article on the "Condemned Meat Industry," for Everybody's, Upton Sinclair, author of "The Jungle," puts forth a quantity of evidence going to show that J. Ogden Armour "willfully and deliberately states what he absolutely and positively knows to be falsehoods" in denying that diseased animals enter directly or indirectly into any food product of his firm. During the two years that Mr. Sinclair studied the meat industry he spent much of his time as a workman in the Chicago stockyards. Sinclair quotes from the report made by Thomas H. McKee, the New York lawyer employed by Doubleday, Page & Co. to investigate the statements made in "The Jungle." McKee was introduced by an attorney for Armour and was conducted through the beef plant by its superintendent. He tells of seeing hogs afflicted with cholera, tuberculosis and ulcer put in a lard tank. Also the sworn statement of Thomas F. Dolan, a former superintendent for Armour, published at the time of the embalmed beef inquiry, tells of many ways of getting round the inspectors. He says dummy tanks for condemned cattle were used, with exhaust steam to give the appearance of real boilers, while in reality the diseased carcasses merely fell through a bottomless tank on to trucks, to be hauled back to the cutting room. Sinclair says that the laws regulating the inspection of meat were written by the packers "for the express purpose of making this condemned meat industry impossible of prevention" and that the United States inspectors are employed to certify to the nations "that all the diseased and tainted meat which happens to come into existence in the United States of America is carefully sifted out and consumed by the American people."

Our National Drink Bill.
Statistics published by the American Grocer, drawn from the internal revenue records, show that since 1901 the cost of stimulating beverages consumed in this country has risen from $1,273,212,386 to $1,548,708,307 in 1905, or a gain of 21.23 per cent. During the same period the population increased from 77,047,000 to 83,143,000, or a gain of 6 1/2 per cent. These figures include tea and coffee. In other words, our drink bill is one-quarter the total estimated production of our entire farm products. The per capita expenditure for stimulating beverages for the year ending June 30, 1905, was $18.63, or $93.15 for each family of five persons. Of this the cost of tea, coffee and cocoa was $2.68, leaving $15.95 for alcoholic stimulants. England's drink bill still costs each inhabitant something over $19. The average for male citizens over fifteen in Germany is $37.38.

Those who had charge of the dinner were the following from the Methuen society: Mrs. George E. Blanchard, Mrs. William Thom, Mrs. Arthur Fearle, and Mrs. C. A. Clark. The waitresses were Mrs. Asa L. Harris, Mrs. Hosea Bradstreet, Miss Helen Cairns, Miss Elsie Searle, and Miss Clara Bailey. The decorating was in charge of Miss Elsie Thom. The reception committee comprised Mrs. R. T. Wolcott, Mrs. Herbert Fay Nye and Mrs. George W. Copp.

THREE FACTS
For Sick Women
To Consider

FIRST.—That almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful periods, displacements of the female organs, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing-down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

SECOND.—The medicine that holds the record for the largest number of absolute cures of female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can.

For thirty years it has been helping women to be strong, curing backache, nervousness, kidney troubles, inflammation of the female organs, weakness and displacements, regulating the periods perfectly and overcoming their pains. It has also proved itself invaluable in preparing women for childbirth and the change of life.

THIRD.—The great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women.—Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. From symptoms given, your trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. Mrs. Pinkham is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years under her direction and since her decease she has been advising sick women free of charge. Out of the vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Surely, any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

LOCAL FISHERMEN

MAKE BIG CATCH

MEREDITH, May 7.—Some very good catches of fish are being made now in Lake Winnepesaukee. W. H. Eldridge of Lynn, Mass., and O. C. Johnson of Lowell, Mass., owners of steamer Meteor, have been stopping at the Elm hotel. In two trips taken with Capt. O. R. Woodman, they captured 45. They were accompanied also by D. Fowler of East Boston and Mr. McKenzie of New York.

Capt. Charles Dow and Charles B. Knight of Manchester secured nine trout that weighed thirty-two pounds. Dr. Shattuck of Andover, Mass., is stopping with a party at Veasey's camp, near Leavitt's shore, and they are catching a large number of them. In two days' fishing they brought in no less than thirty fine trout.

At Drew's camp, a short distance along the shore from Veasey's, are Charles Drew of Stoneham, Mass., Mr. Leavitt of Hingham, Mass., Mr. Stevens of Everett, Mass., and Mr. Joy of Lawrence, Mass. They are catching from one to six trout a day. Arthur Howland and John Blake, trolling from Meredith bay in a row-boat, caught two trout yesterday.

The best catch recorded in the last few days was made by Harry and A. M. Goodwin of Methuen, Mass. They were fishing from Mrs. Kelley's boat in Center harbor today and landed a 12-lb. trout. It was 31-1-2 inches long and put up a big fight before being drawn into the boat.

The brass plates of sun dials are engraved to suit the purchaser or they may be bought already marked with the figures and a simple motto.

These may be had for about $15. They are of heavy brass or bronze, about eighteen inches in diameter, and the gnomon is set at the necessary latitude. Additional inscriptions may be added at an additional cost.

Pedestals made of stone, marble or cement, especially recommended to endure the changes in temperature peculiar to this climate, cost from $20.00 to $100. They are modeled upon the pedestals of the English and Italian gardens, in the form of Ionic or Byzantine pillars with or without carving.

There are vase fountains and there are square or round pillars, surrounded with sculptured figures. The most attractive are the simple square pillars, beautiful on account of their perfect proportions.

One of these pillars, together with the brass dial plate, will cost about $50, although the price may go as high as $100 if either the engraving on the brass or the cutting on the stone is elaborate. Dials are frequently mounted on old tree trunks, upon mounds of stone, or possibly upon a boulder or a piece of stone or wood taken from a building having historical or personal associations.—N. Y. WM. B. GALE LODGE
SIXTH ANNIVERSARY

It being the sixth anniversary of the institution of William B. Gale lodge, No. 140, K. of P., Monday, the event was celebrated by a banquet which followed the working of the rank of Knight long form on one candidate, by the presence of the grand lodge officers and about forty visiting brother Pythians of Phintias lodge No. 56 of Amesbury. The exceptionally high order of the work elicited no small amount of praise from the visitors present and one of the speakers at the postprandial exercises declared that it could not be excelled by any rank team in the Commonwealth.

Together with Grand Chancellor John P. Scott of Somerville, Hon. John N. Cole of Andover, Speaker of the House of Representatives, and a member of William B. Gale lodge was perhaps the most prominent speaker of the evening. Speaker Cole was acting Grand Vice Chancellor. His reception by his brother Pythians was a rousing one. He spoke in a humorous vein but paid a high tribute to the high ideals which are laid down for the followers of Damon and Pythias. -Chancellor Commander John S. Painter presided over the after dinner exercises. He introduced Grand Chancellor Scott as the first speaker. Mr. Scott referred to his recent election to the grand chancellorship and said that it was his duty not to make laws but to enforce them. His remarks constituted a brief outlining of the policy which it is his intention to pursue during his term of office.

Ex-Senator Archie N. Frost was given a great ovation when he arose to give a brief history of Gale lodge of which he is a past chancellor and member. His election as grand outside guard at Lynn bringing honor both to himself and to his lodge, was the subject of most favorable comment on the part of Grand Chancellor Scott.

Ex-Senator Frost brought out the following points in his address: Wm. B. Gale lodge was the result of the labors of Past Chancellor Charles W. March of Quindaro lodge, who was the organizer. It was instituted May 7, 1900 by Grand Chancellor Charles L. Young of Springfield and there were 15 charter members, this being the lodge membership with which the lodge of the order was ever instituted. Since then, the lodge has had 193 applications, there have been six deaths and a few withdrawals and suspensions but its membership now approximates 300. Those who have passed away are: E. N. Pitman, Albert S. Adams, W. A. Thompson, G. A. Whittier, Sidney H. Brigham who was one of the first Past Chancellors of the lodge and William H. Truesdale. W. P. Brown was the first chancellor commander and A. H. Clark, past chancellor of Kearsarge lodge of Methuen, was the first deputy. Mr. Frost complimented the members for their enthusiasm and for their loyalty to the order.

Supreme Representative Frederick E. White of Taunton and Grand Master-at-Arms George W. Pennington of Boston, also spoke eloquently of the order and its principles and complimented Gale lodge on the work it is doing.

Past Chancellor A. H. Clark was the last speaker and briefly acknowledged his appreciation of the honor of being the first deputy of the lodge whose sixth anniversary was being observed. Grand Keeper of Records and Seals Charles A. Cross of Lowell, was present at the rank work.

The special car over the Southern New Hampshire Traction Co's line bearing the Amesbury brothers left on the home trip at midnight.

The banquet served under the direction of Manager Pike of Hunt's Essex street lunch and prepared by Chef Apt was much enjoyed by all. Two hundred covers were laid. The hall was decorated in a variety of colors. The young ladies waiting on wore sashes of the color of the order.

The rank work was witnessed by a number of the brothers of Quindaro and Kearsarge lodges of this city and Kearsarge lodge of Methuen. So large was the gathering that it was necessary to vacate Sager hall in favor of Association hall. The banquet was served in Hutchinson hall.

LAWRENCE RESERVES LOST TO METHUEN CRICKETERS

The cricket season in the Merrimac Valley League opened on Saturday in Lawrence with a match at the Barker street grounds between the Lawrence Reserves and the Methuen Cricket club.

The Lawrence team were early at the grounds but a delay was experienced owing to the fact that the Methuen team arrived late and the wickets were not ready.

The game opened with Lawrence at the bat. Rothera and J. Throp going first to the wickets, with Edleston and Ankers bowling. With the score at two Throp succumbed to a shooter from Ankers and Tynning took his place at the vacant wicket. With the addition of one to the Edleston who was bowled by Tynning, the score was clean bowled well. But one more run was added to the total when Edleston made a wreck of Rothera's wicket and three were down for four runs. Dawson, who had followed Tynning was joined by Ramsden but the latter's wicket was rudely disturbed by Ankers before he scored. Capt. Ackroyd took the vacant wicket and began to score at once making a pretty straight drive to the boundary for three and following the hit by another which counted a couple, Dawson lifted one to leg for a couple, and put another one to the same place for a single, following with a nice leg hit for two more runs. A straight drive for three put Dawson's score up to ten, but in the following over he was caught by Littleton off Ankers without increasing his score.

Doyle followed Dawson, joining Ackroyd, who, however, was clean bowled by Edleston in the next over after completing seven runs, six wickets being down for a total of 21 runs. Eastwood joined Doyle and the latter placed one prettily to leg for two runs but was clean bowled in the same over by Ankers after driving three runs to the score. Roper was the next man up and opened up with a single to leg and getting the bowling. He lifted one in the long field where he was caught by and Celebration of

Gilchrist's

New Corner Store

MONDAY, May 14, marks the final opening of Gilchrist's New Corner Store—another step forward in the mercantile life of Boston—a new era in retailing and a new betterment to public service. The store, a new addition to our present headquarters, with a grand entrance on the corner of Washington and Winter Streets, we believe is the most beautiful in Boston.

No other locality in Greater Boston has one-third of the Transit lines converging to it, being a direct centre to Surface, Elevated and Subway cars as well as to both North and South Stations.

We believe everybody who is interested in Boston or in commercial progress will be proud of it—not because it is ours, but because of what it means: the progressive spirit of Boston commercial life; intelligent endeavor to attain completeness in convenience and comfort for the people.

"Welcome" is written over our doors. We ask you to come and see the results of our efforts to give this great and growing city a store typical of all the best ideas in modern retailing.

We Respectfully Request That You Consider This A Personal Invitation to be Present

William Briggs for one run. Wilson followed but lost Eastwood who was clean bowled by Edleston the next ball for a duck. Wright, the last man in, took his place at the wicket made vacant by the dismissal of Eastwood, but was clean bowled by Edleston without making a run, and the Lawrence inning was closed for 34 runs. The Methuen club sent W. Briggs and Albert Briggs to the wickets. Doyle and Roper bowling for Lawrence. Doyle opened with a maiden over. A. Briggs lifted one to the leg boundary for three and W. Briggs followed with a single, just after being missed by J. Throp from a straight drive right into his hands. A. Briggs made a clean drive for three in the next over and raised the score to 10. Ramsden made a nice stop of a hot one from W. Briggs which saved a couple of runs. A. Briggs lifted one over the leg boundary for four runs, and another one inside for three, following with a single and putting the score up to 20. Eastwood went on to bowl in place of Roper, but A. Briggs lifted one out straight for three, and shortly after W. Briggs made the winning hit and 25 went up. The Methuen club continued their inning and put together a score of 122, the chief contributions being W. Briggs with 36, A. Briggs 41, Parkinson 15, Hamer and Tuttle 10 each. Tynning performed the bat trick, taking three wickets, with successive balls. The following was the score:

Carefully gathered statistics appear to show that the marryingest of all women are trained nurses. Though complete figures have not as yet compiled, from a considerable mass of data the conclusion is drawn that nine out of ten trained nurses marry during the first seven years of their occupation as such.

WHY NURSE DOESN'T HOLD JOBS LONG.

The importance of these figures from the viewpoint of the sociologist is obviously great. Pretty young women in steadily increasing numbers are entering the field in question in which there seems always to be plenty of room, for fresh recruits, who are required to fill the places of those who get married, and pass out of the profession forever. Thus, owing to the causes suggested, it is rare indeed to discover a trained nurse who has been in the business for as much as ten years.—Saturday Evening Post.

MOHAIR 90, MERRIMAC 32.
Mohair defeated Merrimac Saturday afternoon, 90 to 32, without the loss of a wicket. The local batsmen could do little with the bowling of Shaw and Hird, the former having 7 for 14 and the latter 3 for 15. The game was enlivened by the batting of Rowley and Page. The score:

the first seven years of their occupation as such.

When a pretty young woman speaks of devoting her life to the self denying profession of a trained nurse she is using, perhaps unconsciously, a mere figure of speech. Statistics show that she has an even chance to be married within four and a half years and that she has one chance in eight of becoming the wife of a physician. The chances are five to one that within ten years she will marry one of her patients.

Letter to D. Donovan & Son.

Andover, Mass.

Dear Sirs: Here's a story with a point to it.

Devos lead-and-zinc is a cheaper paint than lead-and-oil; costs less, goes further, wears twice as long. But this last don't belong to the story we're going to tell this time.

One of the best painters in Uxtontown, Pa., is L. O. Rutter; does all the best work. We told him Devos goes further than lead-and-oil or mixed paint.

He said: "I've known it for two years, and have increased my business by it. I take a job for less money than anybody else, and get my pick of the work. Don't give it away; for nobody knows how I do it."

The name to go by is Devos.

Yours truly,

F. W. DEVOS & CO.
